

Kasayah Alexis

Associate

Kasayah serves as a liaison between Congress and clients. She keeps clients in the know about the latest Congressional hearings and Hill actions as well as connecting clients to the Hill. Kasayah is particularly interested in antitrust and competition policy, labor laws, health equity, and general appropriations.

Kasayah started with NVG as an intern. Prior to her working with NVG, Kasayah has had experience in strategic political communication, public advocacy, and policy research. She has interned for public relations and corporate activist firm Evergreen Strategy Group where she frequently led client research, developed policy advocacy pitches, and prepared episode memos for Hillary Rodham Clinton's "You and Me Both" podcast. In 2020, Kasayah was also one of 11 inaugural members of the Columbia Law Center for Intersectionality and Social Studies' Young Scholars program where she focused on racial inequities in health care and the impact of COVID-19 on Black Americans. Outside of her political experiences, Kasayah also has experience at a boutique litigation firm focusing on criminal justice, property, and civil matters.

In 2022 Kasayah graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Arts in political science from Howard University. In her free time, Kasayah loves to read, run, play the piano, play with her two puppies, and learn new languages. Her two favorite shows are The Office and Scandal.
