Kate assists the NVG team by connecting clients with key decision makers in Washington. She helps keep clients up-to-date on what's what in Washington by attending Congressional hearings, media monitoring, and assisting with our weekly report. Kate is deeply passionate about women's issues and issues pertaining to our democracy.

Kate's main responsibilities include making sure clients stay plugged into the Conversations on Capitol Hill. Whether that's by setting up meetings, sharing client priorities with key decision makers, or writing memos on the state-of-play.

Prior to joining NVG, Kate interned for Congressman Jamie Raskin in his district office where she was able to gain unique insights into politics at the local and grassroots level. Additionally, she served as Executive Assistant and Acting Secretary in the Maryland Chapter of the National Organization for Women where she advocated on behalf of NOW on a variety of issues including reproductive rights and the ERA.

Kate graduated from the University of Maryland, College Park where she received her BA in Government and Politics and a Master's in Public Policy. She wrote her Master's thesis on broadband adoption in low income urban communities and continues to be passionate about equity and building a strong social safety net.

In her free time, Kate enjoys reading, painting, and a good crossword.
